

Court may give directions in relation to investigation

749. Where the court appoints an inspector under section 747 (1) or 748 (1), the court may from time to time give such directions as it thinks necessary or expedient, whether to the inspector or any other person, including directions given with a view to ensuring that the investigation is carried out as quickly and inexpensively as possible.